

TELLING FAIRHOPE'S STORY

From Fairhope's earliest residents, the Native American Indians, to the potters who were attracted to the abundant, high quality clay, to the Single Taxers looking to create their own Utopia, the Fairhope Museum of History provides an enjoyable and informative presentation of Fairhope's interesting history.

Owned and operated by the City of Fairhope, the museum is located in the heart of downtown Fairhope and occupies the historic circa 1928 Spanish mission-style building which once served as City Hall.
